FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Festival-favorite BECLOUD and Josué Méndez’s Peruvian Class-Portrait GODS to Release on DVD June 28th
Critically acclaimed Latin American titles lead Global Lens spring release

San Francisco, CA – June 7, 2011 - The Global Film Initiative is pleased to announce the release of two new award-winning films on DVD from the renowned Global Lens film series:

BECLOUD (VAHO), dir. Alejandro Gerber Bicecci, Mexico
After years of separation, three boyhood friends reunite in Mexico City to overcome a tragedy that scarred their neighborhood, and childhood, years before; Special Mention at the Morelia International Film Festival and awarded the Jury Prize at the Marrakech International Film Festival.

“Vividly shot…surprising and devastating.” —Variety

“Naturalistic acting, the almost documentary quality of the filming and the setting in the real-life barrios of Mexico City heightens the sense of realism and the feeling that you’re catching a glimpse of the unvarnished truth of daily life in Mexico.” —St. Louis Beacon

GODS (DIOSES), dir. Josué Méndez, Peru
A wealthy industrialist’s working-class fiancée plunges into the extravagance of her lavish new life as her future stepchildren self-destruct in a series of desperate attempts to escape their privileged upbringing; awarded the Best Film at the Biarritz Film Festival and Best Peruvian Film at the Lima Film Festival.

“Méndez's coolly scathing satire of Peru's upper classes conveys the anguished hollowness beneath shallow spirituality and material extravagance.” —Museum of Modern Art

“A vibrant visual glitz, buoyed by beautiful bodies and some unexpected dark humor.” —We Are Movie Geeks

BECLOUD and GODS toured theatrically throughout the U.S. and Canada as part of the Global Lens 2010 film series and appeared in venues, festivals and theatrical locations such as the Museum of Modern Art, Puerto Rico Film Society, Hola Mexico Film Festival and the Mill Valley Film Festival. Both titles are currently featured on Virgin America airlines and exclusively broadcast on the Venevision television cable network, along with other Spanish-language Global Lens titles.

Both DVDs will be available for purchase through the Global Film Initiative website (catalogue.globalfilm.org) on June 28th. BECLOUD includes a “Making of” featurette with filmmaker interviews and exclusive behind-the-scenes footage of the Mexican colonia of Iztapalapa, which provides the real-life setting for the film’s reenactment of the Passion of the Christ.

About the Films

BECLOUD (VAHO), dir. Alejandro Gerber Bicecci, Mexico
On a dry lakebed in 1964, a trucker and his companion find a baby boy at the dry breast of its dead mother. Years later the trucker operates an ice factory in a poor urban district with his son, José, who dreams of one day striking out on his own. Neighbor Felipe, meanwhile, works at an Internet café and another neighbor, Andrés, lives with his alcoholic father but spends his free time studying Mexico’s pre-Columbian golden age. All three share a defining incident from their childhood, linking the destinies of their entire neighborhood to the lakebed and baby from years earlier. In this shrewd and well-acted story, director Alejandro Gerber Bicecci turns a tangled neighborhood tale into an enthralling mix of history, memory and atonement, creating an unexpected parable of modern Mexico itself.

GODS (DIOSES), dir. Josué Méndez, Peru
In director Josué Méndez’s stylishly composed second feature, Elisa—the soon-to-be-wife of a wealthy industrialist—is eager to shed her working-class background in favor of the opulence of her fiance’s elite lifestyle. To her dismay, she soon realizes her hopes to slip into magazine-ready images of domestic splendor must also include her future stepchildren: Diego, who is hounded by his overbearing father and reluctantly preparing to enter the family business, and Andrea, Diego’s party-girl sister and the object of both his desire and disgust. As Elisa embraces her new life of lavish parties and beachfront estates, Diego and Andrea rebel against their upper-class upbringing, setting the stage for an ironic contrast of fate and ambition in this biting satire on upper-crust wealth and privilege.

Upcoming releases include:

MASQUERADES (MASCARADES), dir. Lyes Salem, Algeria
In a dusty Algerian village, a well-intentioned fib suddenly turns a gardener into a mogul, forcing him to choose between the happiness of his narcoleptic sister and his newfound celebrity; Official Algeria Submission for Best Foreign Language Film, 81st Academy Awards.

“Undoubtedly, Masquerades marks Salem out as a talent we’ll certainly be seeing more of—and if his next work is as genial as this, the pleasure will be all ours.”—Screen Daily

SHIRLEY ADAMS, dir. Oliver Hermanus, South Africa
In the depressed Cape Town neighborhood of Cape Flats, a single mother contemplates her fate and cautiously accepts the help of an overeager social worker as she struggles to care for her paraplegic and suicidal son; awarded Best Director at the South African Film and Television Awards.

“True excellence in performance, cinematography, directing, and editing ... A South African masterpiece.”—Jury of the Durban International Film Festival
